

Student Poster Competition

Deadline for Abstract Submission – January 15, 2016
Extended to January 31, 2016

iMAPS New England invites universities and colleges with a strong focus on electronics and packaging to submit poster abstracts for student poster competition. Three cash awards will be given out to students based on technical content, research relevance to the industry and presentation style.

First prize- $500.00, second prize-$300.00, third prize-$100.00

In addition to building significant visibility of participating institutions' research and knowledge, the competition provides an opportunity for close interaction between academic research institutions and industry. The poster showcase on the show floor ensures that the research will be seen by key engineers, managers and executives from all segments of the local and national electronics and packaging industry.
